Speakers:

Heather Waleski is currently the Forensic Program Coordinator at Carolinas HealthCare System Union which covers four hospitals in three different counties. Heather has been an Emergency Department Nurse for 15 years and a Sexual Assault Nurse Examiner for 10 years. Heather started her nursing career in Charlotte and then traveled to New York to work in several Level One Trauma Centers in New York City. She moved back to Charlotte and has continued to work in several of the Emergency Departments in the area. She has conducted Adult and Adolescent SANE trainings in the Charlotte area for 7 years. Heather is a SANE-A, has completed the SANE pediatric training, and is President-Elect for the IAFN-NC chapter this year. She is also a member of the Charlotte Metropolitan Human Trafficking Task Force and Rapid Response Team covering Mecklenburg and Union County.

Dr. Amy Suttle graduated with her MD degree in 1978 from the University of Tennessee, where she also went on to complete her pediatric residency. She began working in general pediatrics in Lexington, NC in 1982. In 1994 she joined Thomasville Pediatrics as a partner. For 32 years she has worked with not only general pediatrics, but also with child abuse by being one of the few CME approved child abuse pediatricians in NC. In October, 2010 she became a part-time child abuse pediatrician at The Dragonfly House (serving Davidson and Davie Counties) as back-up physician to then Medical Director Dr. Sara Sinal. In July of 2014 Dr. Suttle left the field of general pediatrics to begin a new chapter in her career as full-time Medical Director at The Dragonfly House Children's Advocacy Center - a position she still holds today. In 2015 Dr. Suttle also became the Medical Director of Rowan County's Terri Hess House Children's Advocacy Center.

Sergeant Armstrong is a 27 year veteran of the Charlotte-Mecklenburg Police Department. For 17 of these years he was assigned as a detective in the Felony Investigations Division working in the Sexual Assault Unit and Homicide Cold Case Task Force. Sergeant Armstrong also developed and implemented the CMPD SAU Cold Case Unit. Sergeant Armstrong has been awarded the NCCASA Legislative Award and CMPD Chief's Award of Excellence for his work on creating the North Carolina Sexual Battery Law. Sergeant Armstrong has been featured in the book Delayed Justice-Inside Stories of America's Best Cold Case Investigators as well as numerous magazine and news stories about cold case investigations. Sergeant Armstrong currently supervises nine detectives in the North Tryon District of CMPD.

Deb Flowers is an assistant professor in the UNC-CH School of Medicine and an adjunct assistant professor in the UNC-CH School of Nursing. She has been in nursing for 32 years. She was a clinical nurse in the UNC Healthcare Emergency Department from 1988-2006. She served as an assistant supervisor for 9 years and coordinated the sexual assault nurse examiner program from 1997-2006. During that time she completed continuing education for providing care to sexual assault patients of all ages. She is board certified by the International Association of Forensic Nurses in both SANE-Adult/Adolescents and SANE-Pediatric/Adolescents. In December 2006, Ms. Flowers moved over to the UNC Department of Pediatrics to coordinate and serve as the nurse consultant for the NC Child Medical Evaluation Program which provides expert medical consultation to all 100 county DSS agencies in NC with respect to the medical aspects of child maltreatment investigations.

Lauren Schwartz is a Sexual Assault Nurse Examiner at Duke University Hospital as well as the Solace Center at InterAct. In addition to Forensic Nursing, Lauren is also a travel nurse in Cardiothoracic Surgery Intensive Care Units. She became a registered nurse in 2012 after graduating from Northern Virginia Community College. She went on to study Criminal Justice at Liberty University where she earned two Bachelor's Degrees in the study of Criminal Psychology and Forensics in 2015. She received her original SANE training with Sentara Northern Virginia Medical Center and began practicing as a Forensic Nurse. She later received her North Carolina SANE transfer training with Duke University Hospital and earned her SANE-A certification in 2017.

Camille Defêche Mackler is a Certified Emergency Nurse and Sexual Assault Nurse Examiner at Duke University Hospital. She is committed to improving care for LGBTQ patients, in particular those seeking care in the Emergency Department and sexual assault survivors. She currently serves on the LGBTQ Services and Outreach Committee, a joint effort between the Durham Crisis Response Center and LGBTQ Center of Durham, and is a member of the LGBTQ Community Advisory Board, a joint effort between Duke Family Medicine and the Duke Child and Adolescent Gender Clinic. This fall, Camille will begin the Family Nurse Practitioner/Doctor of Nursing Practice Program at UNC Chapel Hill.

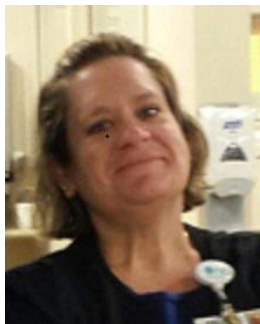

Melinda Manning, JD, MSW is the director of UNC Hospital's Beacon program. She coordinates a multidisciplinary team that works with patients and hospital employees experiencing child abuse, domestic violence, sexual assault, vulnerable adult abuse, and human trafficking. She also serves as the Chair of the Board of Directors for the North Carolina Coalition Against Sexual Assault and teaches at the UNC School of Social Work. She's presented at numerous national and international conferences about intimate partner violence, Title IX, ethics, victim advocacy and substance abuse. Melinda has consulted with colleges and universities on how to improve services for survivors. She was previously an assistant dean of students at UNC-Chapel Hill. In this role, she created new options for survivors of intimate partner violence and created a program to teach faculty and staff how to become "informed allies" for survivors. Melinda was featured in a recent documentary on college sexual assault, "The Hunting Ground."

Corporal Trip Brockwell has served eleven years with the Davie County Sheriff's Office. In that time he has worked patrol, criminal investigations, and is currently a school resource officer. He has investigated and received convictions in multiple complex sexual assault and abuse cases. In addition to his law enforcement experience Trip spent seven years as a Magistrate in Davie County. When he is off duty Trip enjoys being dad to his two teenage sons and spoiling his retired hunting dog, Boomer.

Beth earned her Registered Nurse degree in 2000 from Western Piedmont Community College and her Bachelor of Science in Nursing degree in 2005 from Jacksonville University. She completed her nurse practitioner program in 2014.

Katherine Ariano (or Kat, as she prefers to be called) is a second-career nurse. After an eleven-year stretch in public radio in the northeast, Kat packed her bags with her BSN in hand, and began her nursing career in 2014 at Duke University Hospital in the Emergency Department (ED). In the ED she was "raised" as a nurse, obtaining her Certified Emergency Nurse certification, co-chairing the Clinical Practice Committee, and serving as a charge nurse to the 81-bed department. In 2016 she began working towards becoming a SANE nurse, and continues to practice as a SANE for the ED. Kat has recently moved on to another field of nursing, and is currently working for the Duke Transfer Center; however, you can still find her at the bedside as a Duke SANE, and in the EDs of both Duke and UNC. She is excited to begin her next journey--the graduate school journey--as she peruses an MSN in Nursing Informatics. In April 2018 she traveled to Chicago for the End Violence Against Women International Conference and she is looking forward to sharing the new knowledge she obtained in the windy city with her North Carolina coworkers.

Kate Selby is a Licensed Clinical Social Worker Associate. She graduated from Catholic University of America with a Master's Degree in Social Work, and has worked as a mental health clinician for 3 years. She has worked in the field of sexual violence for 7 years as a clinician, case manager, crisis response advocate, and outreach and service coordinator. She has sought out specialized training in working with marginalized populations and trauma informed therapy modalities including mindfulness/meditation/yoga approaches to trauma.

Brandi Reagan is the Executive Director of The Dragonfly House Children's Advocacy Center. She has been a part of the organization since its conception in 2009 and was named Executive Director in July of 2012. Under her leadership the agency has become a 501c3 non-profit, received National Accreditation status, expanded from 1 employee to a staff of 9, and oversaw a capital campaign for the construction of a new facility for The Dragonfly House. Her education and experience is in Business and Non-Profit Management with many years of training in the field of child abuse. Most recently she obtained her certification as a Trauma Informed Practitioner in Education and has led multiple trainings and presentations in the field of child abuse, children's advocacy centers, and trauma-informed schools/compassionate communities. She has been married for 18 years to Patrick Reagan, who is a Major with the Mocksville Police Department, and they have two children – Sara age 16 and Jonathan, age 14. In 2016 Brandi was named Davie County's "Most Inspirational Person" and also received the "Lt. Kim Sebastian Humanitarian Award" for her work with child abuse victims in the Thomasville community.

Catherine Johnson is a Marine Forces Sexual Assault Prevention and Response Coordinator (SARC) assigned to the Marine Forces Special Operations Command at Camp Lejeune NC. Prior to accepting the position with the Marine Corps, Catherine was an Instructor/Training Coordinator with the North Carolina Justice Academy assigned to develop and implement training for law enforcement on the topic of violence against women. Catherine continues to hold a General Instructor Certification for the state of North Carolina. Before moving to North Carolina, Catherine was a senior detective assigned to the Sex Crime Section of the Special Victims Unit within the Kansas City Missouri Police Department. Catherine has over ten years of law enforcement experience with the Kansas City Missouri Police Department and has had over 400 hours of training in advanced police studies, specifically in sex crimes investigations and crisis intervention. While in Kansas City Catherine served as a member of the Intimate Partner Violence Taskforce with Truman Medical Center, as an Advisory Board Member with the Kansas City Alliance Against Human Trafficking, as a board member for COVERSA (Collection of Victim Evidence Regarding Sexual Assault), and as a Distinguished Fellow with the Missouri Chapter of the International Association of Forensic Nurses. Catherine is currently an Associate Board Member of Project GHB and serves on the Board of Directors with End Violence Against Women International.

While employed with the Kansas City Missouri Police Department Catherine assisted in training new officers for the Crisis Intervention Team as well as new recruits on what to expect if they are asked to handle a call involving a victim of rape. She has developed multiple training courses regarding the investigation of sexual assault. These trainings have been delivered at multidisciplinary conferences around the country, including Kansas City, MO; Columbia, MO; New Orleans, LA; Portsmouth and Manchester, NH; Choctaw, MS; Denver CO, and the U.S. Virgin Islands. In addition, Catherine developed training for sexual assault nurse examiners and advocate volunteer training in the Kansas City area on what to expect from law enforcement during a sex crimes investigation. Catherine has received several awards in recognition for her excellence, commitment, dedication, and tireless devotion to victims of sexual assault. Catherine received a Certificate of Appreciation from Crime stoppers; a Meritorious Service Award, two Certificate of Commendations, and the CIT Officer of the Year Award from the Kansas City Missouri Police Department; a Visionary Award from St. Luke's Hospital Forensic Care Program in 2009; CIT Officer of the Year from NAMI (National Alliance for the Mentally Ill); and the Sara Andrasek Memorial Award from Platte County Prosecutor's Office.

Conference Cost:

Pre-Conference Session:

Pre-session: $175.00 (Early bird rate)

* After August 1st ****

Pre-session: $200.00 (Late rate)

Our pre-conference will focus on the clinical skills and knowledge foundation needed to provide nursing care for pediatric and adult patients presenting for sexual assault or sexual abuse evaluations. We will review the forensic medical exam including physical examinations, evidence collection, injury identification, testing and prophylaxis. Participants will review anogenital dermatology, wounds, photography, exam techniques, and gain comfort and skill in documentation of exam findings. The pre-session is geared towards newer SANEs or SANEs who have been out of practice and need review of basic concepts. This educational activity is also relevant to non-nurse learners who seek to gain a better understanding of the medical forensic exam and nursing process related to sexual assault and sexual abuse.
